HARDWOOD GRADES

Premium Grade: This grade shows all the modern clean, clear attributes of the very best hardwood, with minimal color and grain variations. During the production process the Premium grade is selected by eliminating boards with character or darker heartwood, producing a grade that shows only an occasional mineral streak or pin knot, which are minimized to ensure the quality you expect with a premium floor.

Coastal Grade: Our Coastal grade provides a great option for those looking for intriguing color contrasts, character, natural mineral streaks, and varying grain patterns. Coastal grade is often chosen just to provide diversity in the appearance of the hardwood floor. It's also a very popular grade for those wanting to pull colors together in a room, from the walls through the furniture and floor coverings. The varying colors and grain patterns found in each hardwood species are brought to life in this proprietary grade.

Antique Grade: The Antique grade is reserved for the species with the most spectacular color and grain appearance – Red Birch and American Cherry. A grade unique to Maine Traditions, our Antique grade is produced by using the entire run of lumber, combining our Premium and Coastal grades together in each carton. This blending of grades allows the true flavor of the hardwood to come out, with very rich color and grain contrast.

Natural Grade: Utilizing the entire run of Hickory, we produce this grade to promote better length. Natural Grade exhibits some color variation, with solid character. Includes all clear sapwood, developing heart-wood, a few solid knots up to 3/4", with voids up to 1/4" filled.

Live–Sawn: A true mix of grades, our live-sawn red oak includes plain-sawn, rift-sawn and quarter-sawn lumber, incorporating all of the natural character of the tree from which it was cut. Showcases the full spectrum of red oak's color and grain variations, including knots, checks, pith and intriguing mineral streaks. Offers better than average board length.

Swatches illustrate the difference between our Premium and Coastal and Red Oak. Our Premium grade's minimal grain and color variations are evident. However, many homeowners prefer the more diverse grain and color inherent in Coastal grade. Although our grading standards are more stringent than most in the industry, hardwood is a natural product, and every carton will vary somewhat.

HARDWOOD FINISHES

Maine Traditions Hardwood Flooring is finished with the natural beauty of wood in mind. Rather than covering the natural wood grain, we take specific steps to accentuate it.

- All Maine Traditions products are finished with a UV cured Aluminum Oxide based finish
- Nano Plus technology helps protect against chips & scratches
- Custom designed brushing technique paired with roll coaters ensure a uniform coverage

6 layers of finish

- First is a BASE COAT, applied using a gentle brushing technique that covers the entire surface in preparation for performance layers,

- 4 coats of SEALER, in between coats of sealer we add additional sanding for adhesion creating a uniform smooth surface.

- Finally, a TOP COAT designed for best on market performance.

RANGELEY
COLLECTION

For the Maine Traditions Rangeley Collection, we have employed the centuries-old live-sawing technique to produce solid Red Oak flooring with distinctive style and exceptional characer for today's homes. Live-sawing is actually the oldest, most traditional method of cutting lumber, but its popularity waned in North America as much as a century ago. Now, Maine Traditions has adapted the time-tested sawing technique to create our Rangeley Collection of Red Oak floors.

The Rangeley Collection is offered in rugged substantial 5" wide tongue & groove boards, wirebrushed and finished with your choice of seven stains or clear matte UV finish.

Rather than repeatedly turning logs into the sawmill to maximize yield, the rough lumber used to create the Rangeley Collection is parallel cut in traditional "live-sawn" style used in the past centuries. In simple terms, when we live-saw a log, we start at the top, and work our way down. This results in a natural mix of boards-plain sawn first, then rift sawn, and finally quarter sawn boards nearest the middle of the log.

The live-sawn method incorporates all of the natural character of the tree from which it was cut--showcasing the full spectrum of Red Oak's color and grain variations, including knots, checks, pith and intriguing mineral streaks.

Live-sawn Red Oak Floors in the Maine Traditions Rangeley Collection offer lots of character. In fact, they are far from blandly consistent. So these handsome floors lend themselves to casual, livable homes, old house restorations and many contemporary homes, as well as other applications that call for a truly distinctive look.

FREEPORT
COLLECTION

Introducing the Freeport Collection by Maine Traditions. Freeport is a 5” wide by ½” thick engineered hardwood product that comes in three native species: Red Oak, White Oak, Hard Maple & Hickory.

Freeport engineered products come with a smooth, semi-gloss finish that carries a 50 Year Residential Finish Warranty and a 5 Year Light Commercial Warranty. With Freeport, expect a smooth, durable finish that will wear well in many spaces. Freeport can also be re-sanded by a trained professional, if necessary, and carries a 3mm sawn face veneer.

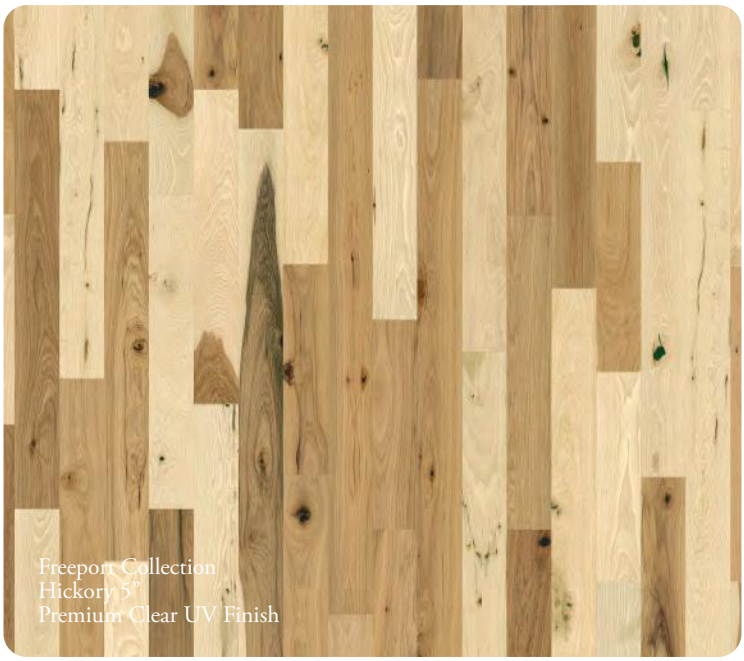

Radiant Heat is also allowed underneath all Freeport products; however, it is required that any installation over a radiant heating system follow NWFA guidelines.
